That such appeal shall be dismissed by said Court of Customs and Patent Appeals if any adverse party to the proceeding other than the Commission shall within twenty days after the appellant shall have filed notice of appeal, according to section 21 (b) hereof file notice with the Commissioner that he elects to have all further proceedings conducted as provided in section 21 (e) hereof. Thereupon the appellant shall have thirty days thereafter within which to file a complaint in a civil action under said section 21 (e), in default of which the decision appealed from shall govern the further proceedings in the case.

The appellant shall file with the court certified copies of all the original papers and evidence in the case, and the Commissioner shall furnish the court with the grounds of his decision, fully set forth in writing, touching all the points involved by the reasons of appeal.

the records of the Patent Office and who shall be controlled thereby.

"The Commissioner shall not be made party to an inter partes proceeding under this subsection, but he shall be notified of the filing of the complaint by the clerk of the court in which it is filed, and the Commissioner shall have the right to intervene in the action.

"In all cases where there is no adverse party, a copy of the complaint shall be served on the Commissioner; and all the expenses of the proceedings shall be paid by the party bringing them, whether the final decision is in his favor or not. REGISTRATION AND PROTECTION OF TRADE--MARKS USED IN COMMERCE

Mr. WILEY. Mr. President, I introduce for appropriate reference a bill to amend the act entitled "An act to provide for the registration and protection of trade--marks used in commerce, to carry out the provisions of international conventions and for other purposes, approved July 5, 1946. I ask unanimous consent that an explanatory statement of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

The VICE PRESIDENT. The bill will be received and appropriately referred, and, without objection, the explanatory statement will be printed in the RECORD. The bill (S. 1957) to amend the act entitled "An act to provide for the registration and protection of trade--marks used in commerce, to carry out the provisions of international conventions, and for other purposes," approved July 5, 1946, introduced by Mr. WILEY, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

The explanatory statement is as follows:

STATEMENT BY SENATOR WILEY

On July 5, 1946, the trade--mark law of the United States was completely revised by Public Law 489, Seventy--ninth Congress, chapter 540, second session. According to the committee report which accompanied the bill at the time of its passage by Congress, the accomplishment of five basic things was intended, viz:

1. To put all existing trade--made statutes in a single piece of legislation.
2. To carry out by statute our international commitments to the end that American traders in foreign countries may secure the protection to their marks to which they are entitled.
3. To modernize the trade--mark statutes so that they will conform to legitimate present--day business practice.
4. To remedy constructions of the present acts which have in several instances obscured and perverted their original purpose.
5. Generally to simplify trade--mark practice, to secure trade--mark owners in the good will which they have built up, and to protect the public from imposition by the use of counterfeit and imitated marks and false trade descriptions.

The law became effective on July 5, 1947, 1 year after its enactment, and during the almost 4 years of its operation some defects in substance and some defects in administration have become apparent. About 2 years ago, authorized representatives of some 26 legal and trade associations and representatives of the Patent Office formed a coordinating committee to study the effects of the law and to recommend such amendments as were agreed to be desirable. (A list of the organizations is enclosed.) Agreement has now been reached and a bill has been drafted to amend Public Law 489, Seventy--ninth Congress, second session, so that the broad basic purposes outlined by the congressional committees at the time of passage of the act may be more readily realized.

As is generally the case when Federal laws are completely revised, compromises were affected, and errors in draftsmanship crept in without any intent of changing the effect of the provisions. Four years of experience under the revised law have led trade--mark owners and their lawyers alike to agree upon amendatory provisions which will result in clarification, simplified administration, and substantive changes consonant with present day commercial practices and the tenets of our jurisprudence.

Although it is probable that some individuals may disagree with some provisions of the amendatory bill, generally speaking it represents the assent of the legal and trade associations participating in the discussions.

Substantively, the amendatory bill will make possible concurrent registration of all marks which are in lawful use in commerce. The legislative history of the act demonstrates clearly that the appropriate provisions of the act had such a purpose, but because of language difficulties a different interpretation has resulted.

The amendatory bill will prevent loss of rights in registrations where use has been temporarily discontinued due to materials shortages, war, or other acts over which the registrant has no control.

The bill will place all registrants on an equal footing, whether they be original registrants or assignees. It is clear from the legislative history that there was no intention to differentiate between registrants, but certain language was included inadvertently which accomplished this result in a literal interpretation of certain of the act's provisions.

The section dealing with cancellation will, by the bill, be clarified both substantively and procedurally. The period within which cancellation proceedings may be brought is tied to another section dealing with incontestability, thereby relieving the anomalous situation where incontestable rights have not been acquired, and yet one who deems himself damaged by a registration is estopped from seeking its cancellation. Reference to a cancellation proceeding by an administration agency outside the Patent Office is to be eliminated by the bill.

The bill will provide a right of action against improper references to registered marks, if such references are likely to cause a mark to lose its significance. Under the present provisions of the act, any course of conduct of a registrant, including acts of omission as well as commission, which causes a mark to lose its significance may result in a holding that the mark has been abandoned. There is, however, no provision for a right of action to stop deliberate attempts by third persons which would have the result of causing the mark to lose its significance. It is this responsibility without recourse which the bill intends to correct.

The bill will eliminate the inequitable defense in an infringement proceeding of past or present violation of the antitrust laws, since both public and private remedies for antitrust violations lie under other acts and do not properly form a part of a trade--mark act.

The balance of the bill deals generally with simplification of procedure, both in the Patent Office and the courts, clarification of obvious language errors which obscure the intent and purpose of the act, and correction of typographical errors.
