

Chapter VII
International Search

International Search

1528

7. Where the international application is so unclear that a meaningful search cannot be carried out, the International Searching Authority will make a declaration that it will not establish a search report. The same will occur if the subject matter of the invention falls into one of six categories listed in Rule 39 which the International Searching Authority may refuse to search. Examples are scientific theories, diagnostic methods, and computer programs.

8. The International Searching Authority examines whether the application complies with the requirement of unity of invention. As stated above, this means that the international application must either relate to only one invention or to a group of inventions which are so linked that they form a single general inventive concept.

9. If the International Searching Authority finds that unity of invention is lacking, it will invite the applicant to pay an additional search fee for each further invention claimed in the international application. The search report will in that case only be established for those inventions for which a search fee or an additional search fee has been paid unless the search examiner is able to make a complete search for all inventions with negligible additional work. No invitation to pay additional search fees should be issued in such a case. The decision not to ask for the payment of additional search fees, however, does not prevent any national office from raising the question of lack of unity of invention and from applying Rule 13 when deciding to grant (or refuse) a patent.

10. The International Searching Authority must, as a rule, establish the international search report within three months from the receipt of the search copy sent to it by the receiving Office or within nine months from the priority date, whichever expires later.

11. The international search report contains the citations of the documents considered to be relevant, the classification of the subject matter of the invention according to the International Patent Classification and an indication of the fields searched. The international search report does not contain any expression of opinion, argument or explanation. The evaluation of the search results is entirely left to the phase of the procedure devoted to substantive examination. However, it identifies the claims to which cited documents are relevant and contains also an indication of the Category of the cited document, in particular, whether it is of particular relevance with respect to the novelty or inventive step of the invention.

12. The International Searching Authority transmits copies of the international search report to the applicant and to the International Bureau. Copies of the documents cited in the international search report are usually enclosed with the mailing of the report to the applicant.

- The International Search Report (ISR) is mailed to the applicant and to the IB.
 - If priority is claimed, the ISR is issued at approximately 16 months from earliest priority date.
 - If no priority is claimed, the ISR is issued within 9 months of the international filing date.

30.01.96

Purpose of the International Search

"The Objective of the international search is to discover relevant prior art."
(Article 15)

30.01.96

Chapter I Relevant Prior Art (Rule 33) (continued)

- Rule 33 also defines two "special" types of relevant prior art for Chapter I search purposes.
 - A previous oral disclosure, use, or exhibition.
 - Later patents or published patent applications having earlier filing or priority dates.

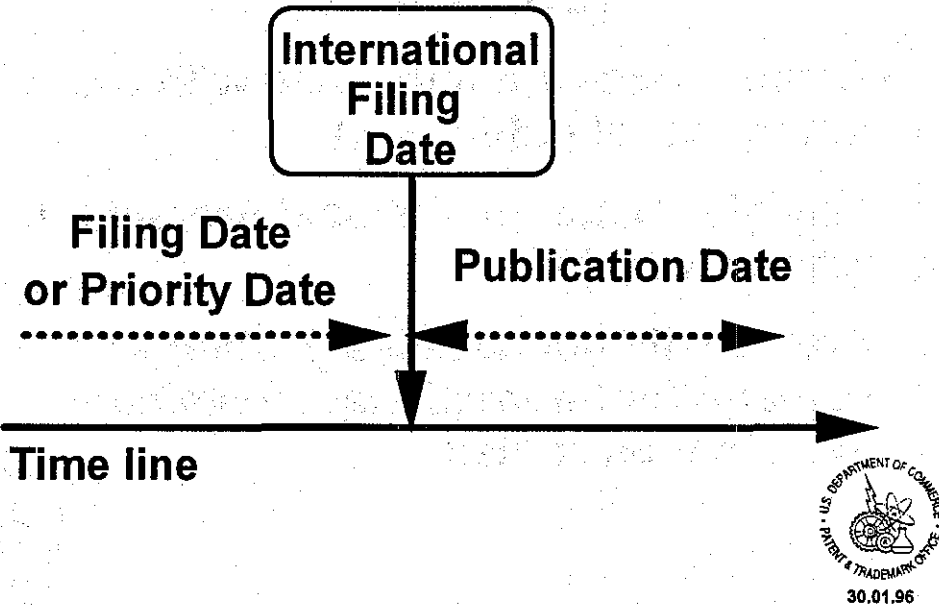

Previous Oral Disclosure, etc.

- A written disclosure
 - which refers to a previous oral disclosure, use, exhibition or other means whereby the contents of the written disclosure were made available to the public,
 - having a publication date on or after the international filing date,
 - wherein the making available to the public occurred before the international filing date.
- Cited on the search report as an "O" type document.

"E" Reference US or Foreign Patent or Published Patent Application

Opportunity To File Amendments During Chapter I

- Only the claims may be amended.
 - Not the description
 - Not the drawings
 - Not the title or abstract
- One opportunity only.
- Normally filed within two months of the transmittal of the ISR to the applicant.
- Must be filed directly with the IB.
 - Do not file with RO
 - Do not file with ISA

Unity of Invention Procedures

- The ISA will invite the applicant to pay the supplemental search fees.
 - ISA/EP will search the main invention and send the results of this search with the invitation to pay supplemental search fees.
 - ISA/US normally sends the invitation without any partial search.
 - If there is a USPTO deposit account indicated in the application papers, ISA/US may make the invitation by telephone.

Unity of Invention Procedures (continued)

- The applicant may pay the supplemental search fees under protest.
- The applicant does not have to pay any of the requested supplemental search fees.

- If the ISA finds that the invitation was not justified or only partly justified, all or a portion of the supplemental search fees will be refunded.
- The ISA may ask for an additional fee to consider the protest.
 - ISA/US does not require such a fee.
 - ISA/EP may require a protest fee under certain circumstances.

30.01.96

- The applicant may request that the text of both the protest and the decision thereon be sent to the designated Offices together with the international search report (Rule 40.2(c)).
- The designated Offices may require a translation of the protest and any decision thereon.

30.01.96

Category

- Documents considered to be of "particular relevance" are identified by using the categories "X" or "Y."
- Other categories for cited documents are "A," "O," "E," "P," "T," "L," and "&."

An "X" Reference* Is One That Defeats

- Novelty or
- Inventive Step when considered by itself, i.e., where the missing element(s) would have been obvious to one skilled in the art without citation of other documents.

* See Section 505 of the Administrative Instructions

The "P" Category*

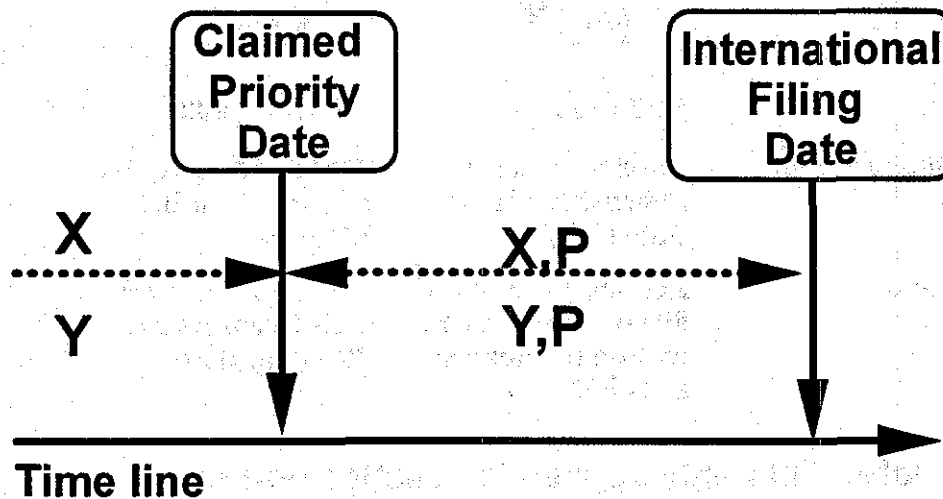

- This is a used in addition to other categories, e.g. "X,P" or "Y,P."
- A reference cited in the ISR is additionally categorized as a "P" reference if its publication date is earlier than the international filing date but later than the priority date.

* See Section 507(d) of the Administrative Instructions

30.01.96

Consider the Publication Date of the Reference

"P" references include journal articles, abstracts, books, patents and published patent applications.

30.01.96

Excluded Subject Matter *

- No International Searching Authority is required to search the following subject matter:
 - scientific and mathematical theories,
 - plant or animal varieties or essentially biological processes for the production of plants and animals, other than microbiological processes and the products of such processes,
 - schemes, rules or methods of doing business, performing purely mental acts or playing games,

 See Article 17 and Rule 39

- No International Searching Authority is required to search the following subject matter:
 - methods for treatment of the human or animal body by surgery or therapy, as well as diagnostic methods,
 - mere presentations of information, and
 - computer programs to the extent that the International Searching Authority is not equipped to search prior art concerning such programs.

PCT/US95/99999

Box I Observations where certain claims were found unsearchable (Continuation of item 1 of first sheet)

This international report has not been established in respect of certain claims under Article 17(2)(a) for the following reasons:

1. Claims Nos.:
because they relate to subject matter not required to be searched by this Authority, namely:

2. Claims Nos.:
because they relate to parts of the international application that do not comply with the prescribed requirements to such an extent that no meaningful international search can be carried out, specifically:

3. Claims Nos.:
because they are dependent claims and are not drafted in accordance with the second and third sentences of Rule 6.4(a).

Box II Observations where unity of invention is lacking (Continuation of item 2 of first sheet)

This International Searching Authority found multiple inventions in this international application, as follows:

Please See Extra Sheet.

1. As all required additional search fees were timely paid by the applicant, this international search report covers all searchable claims.
2. As all searchable claims could be searched without effort justifying an additional fee, this Authority did not invite payment of any additional fee.
3. As only some of the required additional search fees were timely paid by the applicant, this international search report covers only those claims for which fees were paid, specifically claims Nos.:

4. No required additional search fees were timely paid by the applicant. Consequently, this international search report is restricted to the invention first mentioned in the claims; it is covered by claims Nos.:

Remark on Protest

The additional search fees were accompanied by the applicant's protest.

No protest accompanied the payment of additional search fees.

INTERNATIONAL SEARCH REPORT

International application No.
PCT/US95/99999BOX II. OBSERVATIONS WHERE UNITY OF INVENTION WAS LACKING

This ISA found multiple inventions as follows:

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1. In order for all inventions to be examined, the appropriate additional examination fees must be paid.

Group I, claim(s) 1 - 6, drawn to a sailboat self-steering gear.

Group II, claim(s) 7 - 12, drawn to a compass with an alarm to indicate deviation from a planned course.

The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: the special technical feature of the Group I invention is the claimed self-steering gear which is not present in the Group II invention. The special technical feature of the Group II invention is the claimed alarm, which is not present in the Group I invention.

Box III TEXT OF THE ABSTRACT (Continuation of item 5 of the first sheet)

The technical features mentioned in the abstract do not include a reference sign between parentheses (PCT Rule 8.1(d)).

NEW ABSTRACT

A wind vane steering gear (10) for a sailboat (1) comprising a bracket (11) adapted for attachment to the bow of the sailboat for pivotally supporting a forward rudder (12), and a wind vane (42) adjustable to different positions by means of an actuating member (65) to control the position of the rudder.

International Search

General

1. This section deals with the procedure before the International Searching Authority. The first question to be considered is which of the several International Searching Authorities is(are) competent.

2. Where a national or regional Office acts as receiving Office, that Office specifies in a unilateral declaration to the International Bureau, in accordance with the provisions of the agreement between WIPO and each of the International Searching Authorities one or more such Authorities for the purpose of searching international applications filed with it. Where the International Bureau acts as receiving Office, the competent International Searching Authorities are those which would have been competent had the international application been filed with a competent national or regional Office. Where several Authorities are competent, the applicant must choose one of them.

3. The possibilities for the receiving Offices to specify International Searching Authorities are limited by the language capacities and the readiness of some Authorities to act only for applicants from certain countries. These limitations are spelled out with precision in the agreements referred to above.

Search Procedure

4. The objective of the international search is to discover what is called "relevant prior art." According to the PCT definition, "prior art" consists of everything which has been made available to the public anywhere in the world by means of a written disclosure (including drawings and other illustrations). The prior art is "relevant" if it is capable of being of assistance in determining whether the claimed invention is new and involves an inventive step and if it was made available to the public before the international filing date.

5. The documents in which the search is made are constituted by the so-called "PCT minimum documentation." Roughly stated, that documentation comprises the published patent documents issued from 1920 by France, Germany (until 1945) and the Federal Republic of Germany (since 1949), Japan, the former Soviet Union and the Russian Federation, Switzerland (except documents in Italian), the United Kingdom, the United States of America, the European Patent Office and the African Intellectual Property Organization. The documentation includes all international applications published by the International Bureau. It also includes patent documents published in any other country after 1920, in English, French, German or Spanish, provided no priority is claimed and the country places them at the disposal of each International Searching Authority. Furthermore, the documentation comprises non-patent literature contained in some 135 technical periodicals.

6. International Searching Authorities are obliged to consult not only the minimum documentation, but also any additional documentation at their disposal. For the Authorities other than the Japanese Patent Office, as far as the Japanese patent documents are concerned, and other than the Russian Patent Office, as far as patent documents from the former Soviet Union and the Russian Federation are concerned, there is a special exception. For these other Authorities, the said kinds of patent documents are part of the minimum documentation only to the extent that English abstracts are generally available.
