Dear Mary:

I have just heard from Reagan Scurlock that the booklet on Patent and Copyright Policies at Selected Universities which NACUBO sells for $10.00 a piece would be available to us at $8.00 per copy for sending to the SUPA members. NACUBO would not waive its copyright so that Cindy Hanson could make copies for distribution as she had suggested. The price seems a bit high particularly in view of the fact that many of the SUPA members, or at least the schools they represent, are also COGR or NACUBO members. It seems that the best solution would be to either cross-check the membership lists so that we minimize duplication or, and perhaps better, that we should send out a letter to each of our members indicating the availability of this booklet from NACUBO.

The small booklet put out by NACUBO relating to Patents at Colleges and Universities - Guidelines for the Development of Policies and Programs, Reagan informed me can be reproduced and sent to the SUPA members. Perhaps we should ask Cindy Hanson to handle that reproduction job.

Your advice and comments would be appreciated.

Best personal regards.

Very truly yours,

Howard W. Bremer
President
