MEMORANDUM

REFERRING TO sufficiency of name in copyright notice.DATE January 26, 1937.

The notice of copyright printed on the copies of the work entitled PLAY KWIZ reads as follows:

"Copyright 1937
Worthmore, 221 E. 20th St., Chicago".

From the application and other documents in this Office, it is clear beyond doubt that Worthmore refers to the Worthmore Sales Promotion Service, Inc., which is located at 221 E. 20th Street, Chicago, Illinois. The notice in this case is sufficient. Where only one name is printed in the copyright notice and is accompanied by the address, which establishes identification without doubt, every equitable consideration is met. Under these circumstances, it is identification to which we are sifted down as a final issue, and, there being no doubt on this point, the notice although technically inadequate will be regarded as sufficient.
