Title: "America First" and "From Patriots of Yesterday to Americans Today."

Question: Does the deposit contain sufficient copyrightable matter to justify the registration of a copyright claim?

Mr. Wise and Mrs. Brady are of the opinion that the copies contain no more than the conventional representation of the United States Flag and hence there is not present any copyrightable matter upon which a copyright claim can be based.

Mr. Smith, however, hold that there is definitely present more than just the conventional United States Flag in that the artist has attempted successfully to develop around that flag certain pictorial matter which adds to the artistic arrangement of the print, itself. He, therefore, recommends registration under Class K.
