ORDER

GREGORY M. SLEET, District Judge.

After considering the submissions of the parties, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, ADJUDGED and DECREED that the court construes the disputed claims of the patents-in-suit as follows:

U.S. Patent No. 5,389,952

1. The term "in response" in claims 3, 8, 9, 19, 20, and 25 is construed to mean "as a consequence of." FN1 FN1. With regard to each of the "in response" claim terms presently at issue, the court was particularly persuaded by Elonex's argument that certain of the claims explicitly require the delay the defendants now seek to read out of the patent. Thus, to adopt the defendants' proposed construction would be irreconcilable with the reality of the patent claims.

2. The term "off in claims 3 and 20 is construed to mean "the lowest power state of the monitor or circuit that can be achieved by the power management system where the monitor is still able to reactivate itself."

3. The terms "general purpose computer" or "computer" in claims 9, 14, and 24 are construed to mean "a programmable electronic device that can store, retrieve, and process data."

U.S. Patent No. 5.648.799

1. The term "in response" in claims 1, 36, 85, 98, 103, 107, 139, and 150 is construed to mean "as a consequence of."
2. The terms "general purpose computer" or "computer" in claims 1, 36, 73, 80, and 136 is construed to mean "a programmable electronic device that can store, retrieve, and process data."

U.S. Patent No. 5.880.719

1. The term "in response" in claims 1, 2, 3, and 4 is construed to mean "as a consequence of."
